BLOOD AND THUNDER

North-Shore Deputy Sheriff Makes a Silly Blunder.

LUNCHEON PARTY INVADED

True Inwardness of a Howling Tale of Desperate Valor Launched From Pacific County—Funny Fiasco Developed—Other Side Now Heard.

What might have been looked upon as a rich, but harmless joke, precipitated through the over-ardent zeal of an officer of the law, has been turned into something more than mere laughing matter, by the wanton boasts of the aforesaid officer and the quick exposure of his side of the story by his local paper, the Chinook Observer. The side of the yarn not told by the officer in question is given in the following lines, upon the authority of one of the parties subjected to indignity in the premises:

It seems that Captain Lawson, of the schooner Marcona, then loading lumber at the Columbia bills at Knappa, in company with his friends, Mr. Poulson of Portland, and F. E. Williams of the federal quarantine station on the north shore, started out many days ago, on a bear hunt, and after beating the woods down the river for a while, found themselves abreast of McGowan's cannery and being hungry from their tramp, selected a secluded grassy spot and opened up their pocket-hampers for such refreshment as was timely, and after this was discussed were indulging in a meridian smoke and rest, when one of the party remarked upon the beauty and up-to-date-ness of a magazine rifle carried by Captain Lawson: The captain with commendable pride in his handsome weapon pointed it at some drift-wood nearby and exploded half-a-dozen shells in rapid succession to demonstrate its facility and accuracy. Hardly had the echoes of his shots ceased reverberating, when, with a rush and a volley of oaths, Deputy Sheriff Stevens of Pacific county, Washington, with four henchmen, each and all armed and as vehement and blasphemous as their leader, burst upon the scene and ordered "hands up," declaring incoherently that he "knew who they were" and "what they wanted," that "they were the very d—d parties he was looking for," etc., etc.

Mr. Poulson (an old gentleman, by the way) entered a very natural, yet politely vigorous protest against the invasion, and was promptly knocked down by the deputy sheriff, for his temerity. The valiant and discomfited deputy had, of course, discovered his ridiculous mistake, but even as the old man lay where he had been beaten down by the fool officer, that satrap, to preserve his record for bravery and, in some slight measure, save the situation for himself, told Mr. Poulson to "shut up" and continued, if any of you make a move I'll blow your heads off; this threat was followed by others of similar import, and the whole disgusting display wound up with an order "to get out of this neighborhood and to stay out," thus proving to a fatal conclusion (the genuine assassin of his position in the affair. The braves then departed.

Messrs. Lawson, Williams and Poulson, worn off by the effort of their resentment had, after an amplified discussion of the outrage, concluded to treat it with a contemptuous silence due such blackguardly conduct, and would have done so had not the Chinook Observer, in its issue next following the incident, proclaimed the valor, the intrepidity, the conscientiousness and the hundred and one other virtues of this same deputy sheriff, and his aids, in the breaking up of a nest of tramp-fishermen and trappers found in the woods near McGowan's cannery, describing by date, locality, numbers, and every other sign of identification, the episode here set forth. The Observer may have believed the deputy's blood and thunder tale (but the charity that conceals this does not exclude a stinging criticism of its miserable judgment), but, believing it, or not, it published the ribald stuff, and the slop was ready for other columns about the river country than these. The tale was too fishy, too theatrical, too lurid, for the Morning Astorian, without reputable confirmation, and that was not at hand.

The side of the story here offered by the Astorian has the merit of truth and never would have been told at all, if the officer involved in the business had had the good sense to recognize his egregious blunder, apologize for it and refrain from fake heroics after his return to Chinook.

SALVATION ARMY ITEMS.

Ensign Storey, who is in charge of the Sunday schools and young people's meetings of the army, has departed for his new field in Montana. Captain Storms and little sister, in charge of the Astoria corps, left for Bellingham Bay yesterday, on a short visit. Ensign Hiesinger is on a visit to the local corps here and will conduct the meetings for the next few days.

NEARLY ONE HUNDRED.

The attendance at the high school of this city opened on Monday last with 88 young people, and at the close of the school hours yesterday had increased to 94, an excess, the ratio of which, it is hoped by those in charge, may continue for a while, at least. The number of pupils in a local high school bears a sorry barometrical relation to the status, or quality, of the whole school system of its community, and as Astoria's school rating is held to be one of the first in the state, it is essential that her high school show a strong percentage of scholars.

FISH WARDEN'S WORK

Licenses Going Out for Side Stream Fishing—Cases in Court.

State Fish Warden H. G. Van Dusen manages to keep on the "go" pretty much all the time, nowadays. He returned from a flying trip to Portland on Monday evening, and will return on an official mission to Oregon City at once. He is overhauling and re-arranging the fishway at the Willamette falls there and Contractor Henry Joins of that city has telegraphed him to come at once. Joins has constructed two pools of the five there and wants them inspected, and these approved, he will proceed with the others which are all blocked out.

Warden Van Dusen is issuing a big lot of fishing licenses to men operating on the side streams, in fact they are going out at the rate of 30 or 40 per day, and it will not be long until all such fishermen will be equipped with such permits.

While the warden is engaged on these matters, his capable deputy, Mr. Webster, is occupied in the preparation of preliminary incident to the five criminal actions now pending in the circuit court here against violators of the closed season statute, reported from time to time, as they happened, in these columns.

CAPTAIN GOODALE'S OFFICE

No Successor Likely for Some Time—Work Underway in Good Hands.

The departure of Captain G. L. Goodale, U. S. A., constructing quartermaster, department of engineering, with headquarters in this city, has naturally raised the interesting question as to who his successor will be, and when the succession will transpire.

The Morning Astorian is in a position to say that there is no probability that the office will be filled within any computable time for the following reasons: that there are but three unfinished contracts in that department here, to-wit: the building of the dock at Fort Stevens; the erection of the electric plant for illuminating the buildings and grounds there, and the clearing of the reservation grounds for a radius of 200 yards from the buildings at the post. These matters are all being worked out in strict accordance with contract provisions, and the prevailing orders at Fort Stevens and Fort Columbia provide that First Lieutenant B. H. Kerfort, artillery, U. S. A., at Fort Stevens, and Second Lieutenant A. J. Carper, artillery corps, U. S. A., at Fort Columbia, shall, in addition to their corps duties, have full charge of such contracts at their respective posts; so, in the event of any blunder or default, in the work, there is official superintendence enough at hand to obviate the necessity for any very prompt filling of the vacancy occurring by reason of Captain Goodale's detail for service at Boston.

You will need to prepare your system for the coming weather, get your organs to work like clock work. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea taken this month will do the business. 35 cents. Tea or Tablets, sold and recommended by Frank Hart.

Attacked by a Mob

And beaten, in a labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welch of Tekonsha, Mich., "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c at Chas. Rogers' drug store.

T. Tonic that makes sick people well. Drives out all impurities that collect in your system. A family tonic for the sick and afflicted. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents. Tea or Tablets. Sold and recommended by Frank Hart.

IN MUNICIPAL CIRCLES.

Quiet Day at the City Hall—One Case in Police Court.

Yesterday morning Mayor J. W. Suprant affixed his signature to such warrants, ordinances and other documents as were confirmed by the common council at its session on Monday evening.

Auditor Anderson is engaged mostly these days in completing the current records of his office, but little new business presenting itself at his desk.

He presided yesterday afternoon in one case in the police court in which a good looking boy of 20 years, Chris Peterson by name, was the shame-faced defendant in a charge of disorderly conduct.

It seems he filled up on the stuff that inebriates on Sunday evening and went in search of adventure in realms that can furnish it on almost any pretext. While standing in front of an Astor street bignio its occupant threw back her curtains and at sight of the woman an unaccountable impulse moved Peterson to strike her, so he drove his fist and good right arm straight through the glass up to the shoulder, but missed the object of the blow. The crashing glass and the blast of a police whistle made by the woman, scared Peterson into a momentary fit of sobriety and he started to waltz his way out of the mess he had wretchedly put himself in. Officer Wilson who, answered the police call, and who is something of a sprinter himself, took after Peterson and captured him after a race of seven blocks cityward and looked him up.

Chris pleaded guilty, yesterday and looked to "most anyone's" taste and after a few words of rebuke and warning by Judge Anderson, a light fine in the sum of $10 was imposed, in default of the payment of which, Peterson went into durance at the Bastille Hallock, where he will review the "way of the transgressor" for five days to come, unless some friend comes to his relief.

BABY-GIRL DROWNED

Playing on Dock at Clifton—Falls in River—None to Help.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Masca Felangos, the two-year-old baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Felangos, of Clifton, fell over the edge of the river-pier at that place, and was drowned.

No one saw the accident, though many were close enough to have saved her, had they known her peril.

It is thought, from bruises on the head and shoulders, that the little one in falling, struck a floating timber before being submerged, and was rendered unconscious. However, that may be, she was found, two hours after it is supposed she fell in the river, floating face downward, one hundred yards from the dock, from which she fell.

She was a bright and interesting child and a pet in the neighborhood where a generous sympathy prevails for the distracted parents.

The funeral will take place in this city today and interment at Greenwood cemetery.

ANOTHER DIVORCE GRANTED

District Attorney Given Until Today to Return Information in the Several Criminal Cases—Larger Number on Docket Than for Several Terms Past.

The circuit court convened for the morning session at 10 o'clock a. m. and the following formal orders were handed down:

Eliza Williamson vs. C. W. and H. A. Hamblin, settled and dismissed.

Allen & Lewis vs. V. H. Coffey, set for trial Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 27.

Geo. Macauley vs. Seaside Spices and Lumber company, motion to make complaint more definite and certain allowed and defendant was allowed five days in which to answer.

The district attorney was given until today to return information in the several criminal cases.

It is understood that most if not all of the defendants will stand trial, as it is there will be more cases of that class before the court than for several years past.

During the afternoon session today, the following formal orders were made: Claude Thayer vs. M. Buchanan confinement of sale.

C. A. Cook vs. C. Drilling, demurrer overruled and defendant allowed 10 days in which to answer.

Lizzie Allison vs. James Allison, decree of divorce on grounds of cruelty.

Charles Robitzsch vs. the Nehalem Coal company, argued and submitted.

Frederick W. Robitzsch and wife vs. the Nehalem Coal company, argued and ordered that the demurrer be submitted and plaintiff allowed until Saturday to file an amended complaint and defendant be given five days thereafter to plead.
